The Arithmetic of It
The pupils in a school were asked to give in writing the difference between a biped and a quadruped. A boy gave the following: A biped has two legs and a quadruped has four legs; therefore, the difference between a biped and a quadruped is two legs.

The cheapness of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator puts it within reach of all, and it can be got at any druggist's.

DO LONG BREATHS HURT?

DANGEROUS PLEURISY, ALWAYS BEGIN THIS WAY

Speediest Cure is Nerviline

Ouch, that stab-like pain in the side is like a hot knife blade in the ribs!

Probably got overheated—cooled too fast—now there is congestion, tightness, such soreness you can't draw a long breath.

This is the beginning of Pleurisy.

Pleurisy is far too serious to neglect a single instant.

Quickest relief will come from a vigorous rubbing with Nerviline. This trusty old pain reliever will fix you up in no time—will take away the congestion—make you well just as it did Mr. Samuel St. Johns, of Stamford, who says:—

"In running to catch a train last week I became much overheated. I put up the train window and rode that way in order to get cooled off. In an hour my side was so full of pain and my breathing hurt so much that I thought I had pneumonia. I always carry Nerviline in my grip and at destination I rubbed my side thoroughly three times. The warm penetrating effect was soon noticeable and I quickly got relief. Nerviline I consider saved me from a serious illness."

Any sort of a cold can be quickly broken up with Nerviline which is a marvel for reducing inflammation, for relieving congestion in the throat and chest, for curing stiffness in the side, lumbago, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Nothing more soothing or powerful. The 50c. large family size is the most economical. Small trial size 25c. at dealers everywhere.

Jean longed for a kitten with all heart, but her mother was not fond of cats, so she was not allowed to have one in spite of her eager pleadings. At length it became necessary for Jean to go to the hospital for an operation. I will make a bargain with you, Jean, said her mother. If you will be a brave little girl about having your operation, you shall have the very nicest kitten I can find.

Jean climbed upon the operating table and took the ether without a struggle. As she came out from under the influence of the anaesthetic and began to realize how sick and wretched she felt, the nurse leaned over to catch her first spoken words: What a bum way to get a cat.

CRIPPLING PAINS OF RHEUMATISM

Cannot Be Cured By Liniments—Must be Reached Through the Blood

Thousands of men and women suffer severely from rheumatism. Cruel, crippling pains in the muscles and joints make every movement a torture. Many people think rheumatism is due to cold or wet weather and they try to cure themselves by rubbing liniments on the painful parts. This is a great mistake—the rheumatic poison is in the blood, and liniments and rubbing cannot give more than the most temporary relief. If you are a victim of rheumatism or lumbago you can only rid yourself of it by making your blood rich and pure, for only in this way can the poisons of rheumatism be driven from the system. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured more cases of rheumatism than any other disease except anaemia, just because they make the rich, red blood that goes right to the root and cause of rheumatism. You cannot be well when your blood is impure, therefore, begin curing your rheumatism to-day with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The following are the particulars of one of the many thousands of cures to the credit of this health-giving medicine.

Mr. Jerome Nadou, St. Jerome, Que., says: "A few years ago I was seized with a severe attack of rheumatism. The pains in my back, arms and legs were terrible. I treated with several doctors but they did not help me, and as time went on I was unable to work and began to think that I would be a cripple for life. While in this trying condition a friend who had been cured of rheumatism by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advised me to try this remedy, and I got a supply of the Pills. I had taken the Pills for several weeks before any improvement was noticed, but once signs of relief came the improvement from that time on was rapid, and I joyfully continued taking the Pills until every vestige of the trouble disappeared. No one but a similar sufferer can imagine the gratitude I feel for this relief from pain, and because I have since enjoyed perfect health I urge other rheumatic sufferers to give this medicine a trial."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MUNICIPALITY OF MOUNTAIN VIEW

WEEDS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the farmers of Mountain View Municipality that the Weed Act will be STRICTLY enforced during 1914. It has been noticed that weeds have been abnormally spreading year by year, and in order to check their growth or exterminate them, drastic measures must be taken in the public interest to check or eradicate them. Those who have weeds upon their land should plan before seeding the best way of freeing their land from them. Either summer-fallow or sow for green feed with the intention of cutting before the weed seed can ripen. If it is found that weeds are in your crop grown for grain you may expect to be compelled to hand pull them. It would be considered a favor if every farmer would send an unsigned postal card to the Secretary stating thereon the quarter sections in his neighborhood where he knows weeds are prevalent and also state the kind of weeds.

BY ORDER OF THE COUNCIL.

TONIGHT (Thursday, March 19th) the Didsbury Band and Orchestra will give their first concert of the season in the High School basement and it is to be hoped that they will receive good support in their efforts to provide a good evening's entertainment as well as for their work in raising the musical standard of the community. The Orchestra have always shown their good will to the public by giving their services free for any entertainment that has been held and the public should show their appreciation of their services by assisting these organizations in their efforts to create funds to carry on their good work. Come to the concert tonight.

IN our advertising columns will be found an advertisement from Mountain View Municipality calling attention to the fact that the Weed Act will be strictly enforced this year and suggesting ways and means for the farmer to eradicate these nuisances. This is the best time of the year to take preventive methods for the growing of weeds as seeding has not been commenced and the farmer is usually making up his plans for the coming season as to what land he should crop. If he sincerely wishes to get rid of his weeds he can plan to summer fallow or sow for green feed any land that has become foul with weeds and thus save himself a heavy loss in his grain returns, or worse, heavy court and damage costs. But while the Municipality is looking after the farmers and compelling them to abide by the law what about the Municipality's share of this disgrace. It is noticed that the roads for which they are responsible in a great many places are worse even than the farms, and if they expect others to abide by the law they should themselves set the example by cleaning out the weeds. For the information of all concerned we give two penalty extracts from the Noxious Weed Act (1913):

Section 4.—Any owner or occupant of land shall destroy all noxious weeds thereon, and if he makes default in so doing he shall be guilty of an offence and on prosecution therefor by an inspector or other officer, or by any owner or occupant of land, under this Act, shall on summary conviction thereof be liable to a penalty of not less than five and not exceeding $50 and costs.

Section 20.—Violation of any provision of this Act for which no penalty is provided shall be an offence and the offender shall on summary conviction thereof be liable to a penalty of not less than five and not exceeding $50 and costs.

Council Discuss Problems

The Council held a regular session on Monday night in the Council chambers. All the Council were present as well as Constable Sick and Fire Chief Wood.

Messrs. Ratty, of Calgary, and Depew, of Medicine Hat, were also present and assisted the Council in their deliberations.

Mr. Depew gave the Council a report as to levels on Railway Ave. for the purpose of open drainage of the business lots on to the street or lane and also for sidewalks in the burned area.

The report was discussed, but the Councillors seemed to have different ideas as to what was meant by the report and it was finally decided to ask Mr. Depew to make profiles of the survey, so that a better understanding of the matter could be arrived at.

The trouble is the extreme difference in the grade in the block between Osler and Hespeler streets and the difficulty in getting the drainage on the lane instead of on to the main street, and the height of the permanent sidewalk will be when laid above the crossings at Hespeler street.

A committee composed of Mayor Atkins, Councillors Chambers and Sinclair will accompany Mr. Depew on an inspection of the blocks.

As Mr. Depew has so far given his services for surveying free a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to him by the Council.

Another discussion arose over the building bylaw, but it was decided to lay over further discussion of the bylaw till Wednesday night.

Complaints were received of the odors arising from a piggery on King Edward street. Constable Sick has the matter in hand.

The Council then adjourned to meet again on Wednesday evening.

Another Mysterious Fire

There must be a fire hound on this town, or else spite work or some fire maniac is at work. Another fire took place on Friday morning last at the same time in the morning that the previous fires were discovered, about 3.30 in the morning. The Cloverhill Creamery, which is situated some distance to the south of town, was the scene this time of the fire fiend's work. Mr. LeBlanc who is manager of the Creamery, and who lives in the big two storey house to the west of the Creamery, was awakened by the fire which had gained considerable headway. He immediately telephoned to Fire Chief Woods who gave the alarm but again the fire had got such a hold before help arrived that the Creamery was completely demolished.

The building and plant was owned by F. N. Ballard of Edmonton. The loss was $5,000, with $2,000 insurance on plant.

I am Mrs. Allan Fleming, she said, with a certain husky defiance.

I beg your pardon, I said after a minute. You mean the Allan Fleming who has just died?

She nodded. I could see she was unable just then to speak. She had nerved herself to the interview, but it was evident that there was a real grief. I saw now that she was in mourning.

Do you mean, I asked incredulously, that Mr. Fleming married a second time?

He married me three years ago in Plattsburg. I came from there last night. I couldn't leave before.

Does Miss Fleming know about this second marriage?

No. Nobody knew about it. I have had to put up with a great deal, Mr. Knox. It's a hard thing for a woman to know that people are talking about her, and all the time she is married as tight as ring and book can do it.

I suppose, I hazarded, if that is the case you have come about the estate?

Estate? Her tone was scornful. I guess I'll take what's coming to me, as far as that goes, and it won't be much. No, I came to ask what they mean by saying Allan Fleming killed himself.

Don't you think he did?

I know he did not, she said tensely. Not only that, I know who did it. It was Schwartz—Henry Schwartz. You don't know Schwartz. I was married to him for fifteen years. I took him when he had a saloon in the Fifth ward, at Plattsburg. The next year he was alderman. I didn't expect in those days to see him riding around in an automobile, not but what he was making money, for Henry Schwartz is a money maker. That's why he's boss of the state now.

And you divorced him?

He was a brute, she said vindictively.

BROKE OUT ON HEAD, NECK AND SHOULDERS

In Little Blotches, Scratching Caused It to Spread. Hands Had to Be Tied, Cried Day and Night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Ennisville, N. B.—"The trouble started when my baby was four months old. Her head, neck and shoulders were a mass of sores. They broke out as first in little blotches, only watery, which the child scratched and caused to spread and form a mass of sores. Her hands had to be tied to keep her from scratching the sores. The sores caused her to itch and burn and to be cross and peevish. She was disfigured for the time she had it. She cried day and night from the irritation. Neighbors said she would never be cured."

"She was given some medicine to take inwardly but without success. Then a friend told me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment which I did. I washed the child with Cuticura Soap, dried well, then applied the Cuticura Ointment every day and in a week's time the burning sensation left, the child scratched no more, and when she was eleven months old she was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. John J. McCann, Nov. 27, 1912.

Although the Cuticura Soap and Ointment are most successful in the treatment of affections of the skin, scalp, hair and hands, they are also most valuable for everyday use in the toilet, bath and nursery, because they promote and maintain the health of the skin and hair from infancy to age. ively. He wanted me to go back to him, and I told him I would rather die. I took a big house and kept bachelor suites for gentlemen. Mr. Fleming lived there and—he married me three years ago. He and Schwartz had to stand together, but they hated each other.

Schwartz? I meditated. Do you happen to know if Senator Schwartz was in Plattsburg at the time of the murder of Mr. Fleming's death? He was here in Manchester. He had already threatened Mr. Fleming's life.

He had already tried to kill him the day we were married. He stabbed him twice, but not deep enough.

I looked at her in wonder. For this woman, not extraordinarily handsome, two men had fought and one had died—according to her story.

CHAPTER XIV. Edith's Cousin

I can prove everything I say, she went on rapidly. I have letters from Mr. Fleming telling me what to do in case he was shot down. I have papers—cancelled notes—that would put Schwartz in the penitentiary—that is she said cunningly, I did have them. Mr. Fleming took them away.

Aren't you afraid for yourself? I asked.

Yes, I am afraid—afraid he will get me back yet. It would please him to see me crawl back on my knees. But he cannot force you to go back to him.

Yes, he can. She shivered.

Fleming had been shot. Schwartz had been in the city about the Borough bank. He had threatened Fleming before, but a political peace had been patched. Schwartz knew the White Cat. That was all.

I know a lot about inside politics, she said as she got up. I have seen the state divided up with the roast at my table and served around with the dessert, and I can tell you something you don't know about your White Cat. A back staircase leads to one of the upstairs rooms and shuts off with a locked door. It opens below, out a side entrance, not supposed to be used. Only a few know of it. Henry Butler was found dead at the foot of that staircase.

He shot himself, didn't he?

The police said so, she replied, with her grim smile. There is such a thing as murdering a man by driving him to suicide.

She wrote an address on a card and gave it to me.

Just a minute, I said as she was about to go. Have you ever heard Mr. Fleming speak of the Misses Maitland?

They were his first wife's sisters. No, he never talked of them, but I believe just before he left Plattsburg he tried to borrow some money from them.

And failed.

The oldest one telegraphed the refusal, collect, she said, smiling faintly.

There is something else, I said. Did you ever hear of the number eleven twenty-two?

No—or—why, yes—she said. It is the number of my house.

It seemed rather ridiculous when she had gone, and I sat down to think it over. It was anti-climax to say the least. If the mysterious number meant only the address of this very ordinary woman, then—it was probable her story of Schwartz was true enough. But I could not reconcile myself to it, nor could I imagine Schwartz, with his great bulk skulking around, pinning scraps of paper to pillows.

That night, at the most peaceful spot I had ever known—Fred's home—occurred another inexplicable affair, one that left us all with racked nerves and listening, fearful ears.

That was to be Margery's last evening at Fred's. Edith had kept her as long as she could, but the girl felt that her place was with Miss Letitia. Edith was desolate.

Margery and I were alone.

Perhaps I was morbid about the ring. It seemed to me she lifted her hand and looked at it.

Harry Wardrop was here last night, I said, poking down the log with my heel.

Here?

Yes, I suppose I was wrong, but I did not say you were here.

She looked at me closely out of the most beautiful eyes I ever saw.

I am not afraid to see him, she said proudly, and he ought not to be afraid to see me.

In justice to him, I said, and because I want to fight fair I tell you tonight that I don't believe he knows anything about your father's death and that I believed he was robbed that night at Bellwood.

What about the pearls he sold at Plattsburg? she asked suddenly.

I think when the proper time comes he will tell about that, too, Margery. I did not notice my use of her name until too late. If she heard she failed to resent it. After all, if you love him hardly anything else matters, does it? How do we know but that he was in trouble and that Aunt Jane herself gave them to him?

She looked at me with a little perplexity.

You plead his cause very well, she said. Did he ask you to speak to me.

I won't run a race with a man who is lame, I said quietly. Ethically I ought to go away and leave you to your dreams, but I am not going to do it. If you love Wardrop as a woman ought to love the man she marries then marry him and I hope you will be happy. If you don't—no, let me finish. I have made up my mind to clear him if I can, to bring him to you with a clear slate. Then—I know it is audacious, but I am going to come too, and—I am going to plead for myself then unless you send me away.

She sat with her head bent, her color coming and going nervously. Now she looked up at me with what was the ghost of a smile.

It sounds like a threat, she said in a low voice. And you—I wonder if you always get what you want?

Then, of course, Fred came in and fell over a hassock looking for matches. Edith opened the door of the den and called him to her irritably, but Fred declined to leave the wood fire and settled down in his easy chair. After awhile Edith came over and joined us, but she snubbed Fred the entire evening to his bewilderment. And when conversation lagged during the evening that followed I tried to remember what I had said. She had not been angry and she had understood. Blessed be the woman that understands.

We broke up for the night about 11. Mrs. Butler had come down for awhile, and had even played a little something of Tchaikowsky's, a song, a plaintive theme that brought sadness back into Margery's face.

Fred and I sat in the library for awhile after the rest had gone, and I told him a little of what I had learned that afternoon.

A second wife, he said, and a primitive type, eh? Well, did she shoot him or did Schwartz? The lady or the Democratic Tiger?

The Tiger, I said firmly.

The Lady, said Fred, with equal assurance.

SCHOOL TEACHERS

Always Have Things to Learn

"For many years I had used coffee and refused to be convinced of its bad effect upon the human system," writes a veteran school teacher. (Tea is just as harmful because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee).

"Ten years ago I was obliged to give up my much-loved work in the public schools after years of continuous labor. I had developed a well defined case of chronic coffee poisoning.

"The troubles were constipation, flutterings of the heart, a thumping in the top of my head and various parts of my body, twitching of my limbs, shaking of head and, at times after exertion, a general 'gone' feeling, with a toper's desire for very strong coffee. I was a nervous wreck for years.

"A short time ago friends came to visit us and they brought a package of Postum with them, and urged me to try it. I was prejudiced because some years back I had drunk a cup of weak, tasteless stuff called Postum which I did not like at all.

"This time, however, my friend made the Postum according to directions on the package, and it won me. Soon I found myself improving in a most decided fashion.

"The odor of boiling coffee no longer tempts me. I am so greatly benefited by Postum that I am going to improve as I am now, I'll begin to think I have found the Fountain of Perpetual Youth. This is no fancy letter but stubborn facts which I am glad to make known."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Write for a copy of "The Road to Wellville."

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. Grocers sell both kinds.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

Too Much for Father

In the country is a youngster who is the terror of his parents on account of the questions he can ask. He is a human interrogation point.

One day last week he caught a caterpillar, and as usual, was tormenting the life out of the father about it. Pater is a schoolmaster, and used to the manifestations of his offspring's intellect; but finally he gave way under the fire of questions, and informed the youth that school hours for the day were over.

Silence followed for a minute, and then came, appealingly:

Papa, I want to know just one more thing.

Well?

How did the wiggle on the caterpillar come to be arranged?

The father collapsed.

The Archaeologist

How a Bandit Received a Pardon and Employment

By F. A. MITCHEL

I do not hesitate to say that to many educated persons Rome is the most interesting city in the world. She scattered over Europe the seeds of our religion. She formulated our laws. Hardy in her prime, she mingled her blood with barbarians who, when she became old and feeble, inherited her early hardihood of brain and body and begat the European of today.

From my childhood I wished to visit Rome. As boys study with a view to an object, such as a profession or a business, I studied with a view to visiting the Eternal City. I learned to speak Italian and Latin. I read the books of Roman writers that have been preserved to us for twenty centuries in the language in which they were written.

What gave direction to my desires was reading of the hasty burial of works of art to hide them from the overpowering barbarians. Not a year passes without some statue being dug from beneath the surface in or about Rome. I was myself seized with a desire to find some of the treasures that adorned Rome in the days of her grandeur. My object in life may not have been practical, but it is not only practical objects that are absorbing.

I was not permitted to visit the land of my dreams until I was twenty-seven years old. Then I found myself in possession of property which gave me an income of a few thousands a year. Within a month after the receipt of my patrimony I was in Rome.

I had been more than a year in Rome and had studied the references to a number of villas that had been the residences of ancient Romans with a view to selecting one to search for. Finally I stumbled on a record of a very rich man, Manlius Quintus Piso, who had made his money as an auctioneer. Mention was made of a mania coming upon him after he acquired wealth for collecting beautiful works of art. The author I read stated that his villa contained more valuable statues than any other of his time. Among others, was mentioned a statue of Diana that had cost its owner a fabulous sum. The location of the villa was given as among the hills lying to the south of Rome across the Campagna. A small stream flowed past it; a high hill was directly behind it. There were other references to the contour of the surrounding country calculated to help one searching for the site. These I studied and, not content with one reference, hunted till I found another description of the villa as it had been before its destruction during one of the earlier invasions of the Goths.

When I had got all the information possible on the subject I packed digging implements in my trunk—I did not dare to let it be known that I was going to make excavations—and went by the electric railway to Frascati, which I made my headquarters. I set out from there the next morning with my implements rolled in a steamer rug bound by a shawl strap.

I spent a week hunting for a location that fitted the description I had gained from the books I had read. Then I spent another week doing some surface excavating. I was digging, the third week, on a spot which I thought warranted more attention than the others when something happened.

The voice came from behind me. I turned quickly and saw a man standing with a rifle in his hands, which he could bring to his shoulder in a moment. I had been aware of the danger attending being out alone in the country in Italy and had a revolver strung to each hip. But before I could use either of them I would be killed. The man covering me was so respectable looking that I could not realize at once that he was a bandit. But he would have had no object in being ready to shoot me if he were not.

"I presume," he said in excellent Italian, "that you are doing archaeological work. Are you aware that excavations are in the hands of the government?"

"I am," I replied, "but I am hoping to make a discovery that will surprise the government and thus gain immunity from having broken the law."

"I sympathize with you, signor, but as a good citizen it is my duty to inform upon you."

"What sum would induce you to refrain?"

"You are an American, I fancy, from your looks, your dress and the accent with which you speak Italian. Americans are all very rich."

"I have but 10,000 francs a year."

"That implies a capital of 200,000 francs. Surely you can divide with one who has been unfortunate."

"You mean, I suppose, that I am in your power, and you demand a ransom of 100,000 francs?"

"You have stated the case correctly." I stood thinking for a few minutes what I could do. I had no funds in Italy. The interest on my money invested in America was sent me quarterly. I had spent nearly all of my funds of the present quarter, and it would be two months before I received another remittance. I explained this to the bandit, but it did not appear to make much impression upon him.

"I have never seen an Italian bandit," I said, "but you don't fulfill my idea of one. You look like a gentleman."

I thought I could see him wince.

"You are a gentleman," I continued, "who has met with misfortune."

"You are right, signor."

"May I ask the cause of your being what you are?"

"Games of hazard. I was intending to follow a line something like that you are engaged in, but I not only lost my patrimony; I lost money for others. I became an outcast."

There was a tinge of sadness in his tone as he spoke this which induced me to proceed:

"How would you like to return for a brief season to your original or your intended occupation? I believe that I am on the track of a buried villa that formerly contained valuable works of art. I would be happy to have you join me."

His eye lighted up. The Italian, whatever he is, is artistic in his tastes, and in this man was added the fervor of an archaeologist. I saw that he would love to take a breathing spell from robbery in a work he loved.

"Whose villa are you hunting for?" he asked.

"Manlius Quintus Piso's."

"What data have you?"

I gave him the two authors who had written descriptions of the villa.

"There is another reference," he said. "I came upon it when I was beginning the study of archaeology."

He remembered the description given by an author with whom I was not familiar and repeated it to me verbatim in the Latin vernacular. I saw at once that with the two I had it would bring me much nearer the exact spot for which I was looking.

"Come," I said, turning my back to him, "take these weapons from my belt and do what you like with them. Then join me. We are very near the location of the Piso villa, but not quite. We must go southward about 300 yards."

He astounded me by telling me to keep my weapons and, uncorking his rifle, slung it on his back. Then we started out to pace the 300 yards, moving at an angle with each other of about twenty-five degrees. After piling the distance each began to dig. We found nothing but dirt where we began, but we made together some fifty holes in an area of about a thousand feet in circumference. About sun set I heard my companion call to me. I went to him and found that he had come upon a pavement. He had been digging in a depression and had gone down about four feet from the surface.

Fortunately the moon rose before the sun set, and, anxious to go as far as possible with our work before attracting attention, we began to throw up dirt in earnest. It was soon evident from the marble pavement we uncovered that we had struck something fine and had not gone far before we came to what proved to be the impluvium (basin), which was in the center of all antique Roman houses. But at the time we examined only a small portion of it. By midnight we had come upon several statues, but they were broken in small bits. We worked on, and by dawn I struck a pair of marble feet.

Carefully removing the earth from about a statue lying flat on the ground, I came upon a quiver and a bow. The drapery was feminine. I buried it, hoping that I had struck the Diana of which I had read. My hopes were confirmed on reaching the head, where above the forehead we found the star which always accompanied representations of this divinity.

That was as far as we deemed it prudent to go. I believed that the discovery we had made would greatly interest the government, to which I proposed to turn it over. After receiving information about my companion that would enable me to find him I hurried to Rome and to the office of the official charged with excavations. He listened to my story with wonder and delight and when I had finished asked me what I would expect for my find.

I told him of the bandit by whom I had been aided, and if the government would pardon him and give him some position that would enable him to make an honest living I would feel repaid for my discovery.

There is nothing more to tell except that the statue we unearthed proved a splendid work of art and was very little damaged. It was removed to the new gallery on the Esquiline hill opened by the government. The bandit received his pardon and employment in the archaeological department of the government.

HE DIDN'T LIKE DRIPPING.

And No Wonder, After He Had Read About Its Strength.

What is dripping?

Everybody knows that dripping is supposed to be the juices, the savory essences, that fall from roasting meats.

That is the supposition. But what really is dripping—the dripping that the poor of England buy by the pound and smear upon their bread in lieu of butter?

The question perhaps will never be answered, but a partial solution is given to it by the fact that a London poorhouse recently bought at $7 a ton thirty-two tons of dripping from—a soap works.

Alfred Noyes used to tell a dripping story.

"A little boy," he would begin, "complained bitterly about the bread and dripping that formed his daily breakfast."

"It'll kill me," he whined at last. "I know it'll kill me."

"Kill you? What do you mean?"

"Why, I've been feeling pretty bad lately, and now I know it's all this dripping what's the cause of the trouble. I read it in a book."

"Some pure food rubbish, I dare say! And what, precisely, did you read in this vile book, silly?"

"I read," whined the urchin, "that constant dripping wears away a stone."—Exchange.

HUMOR OF A CANNIBAL.

He Enjoyed It Himself, but It Didn't Tickle the Victim.

A number of natives came to greet us when we landed at Bau, a Fiji island, among them a few whom the consul seemed to know. They volunteered to act as escorts for us and by various expressions tried to convey the idea that they were glad to see us.

A school forms one side of the square. Across from this stands the council chamber, built on the trench where the bodies were roasted for their former feasts. The old headstone against which Cacoahu used to dash the brains of his victims still stands, and the anchor and rudder of a French ship wrecked near Bau lie beside it.

Beneath a picture of Queen Victoria I saw an old sword swinging. I examined it and found it was a French weapon, no doubt the arm of the unfortunate French vessel's commander.

During the time this was going on Jim, Batu Kadavu's servant, who is a particularly good type of a large, muscular race, approached me, ran his hand around my waist and slowly down my thigh and smacked his lips with a wicked smile. I laughed at this display of aboriginal humor, but not very heartily, for the sword of the French captain still swung before my eyes.—Christian Herald.

Time For the Actor to Stop.

On the subject of playing the same part over an indefinite number of times David Warfield says:

"There is no such thing as playing a part too long. The mellowing process should never cease, but if it does, if spontaneity fails, if the actor feels that he is becoming at all mechanical in the part, he should abandon it at once—for his own salvation."

"The surest danger signal is half-hearted applause. From this the actor knows that he has lost an essential quality of the character, and the tragedy of it is he cannot tell what that quality is or how he lost it. An actor may tell a joke a thousand times and provoke laughter, but suddenly it fails of response. That's the time for him to stop."—American Magazine.

A Cure For Mosquitoes.

The people of London have learned of an agreeable way to keep their houses free from flies and mosquitoes. They burn sandalwood, which has a pleasing odor, but one that the summer pests much dislike. The idea comes from the orient, where it has long been practiced.

The sandalwood can be bought at almost any Turkish or Japanese importing house. You prepare it for burning by cutting it into pieces about half an inch thick and three inches long and then bake or dry it in a slow oven for twenty-four hours. You light a piece of the wood and put it in a metal urn or saucer. After it has ignited well blow out the flame and leave the red ember to smolder until the wood is wholly consumed.

"It is very curious to me," said Sitters, "what a musical voice Mrs. Brighteyes has, and yet whenever she speaks in French it is hard and rasping—almost metallic."

"Oh, that's only natural!" said Ringo. "You see, Mrs. Brighteyes learned French by phonograph, and she has mistaken the imperfections of the records for accent."—Judge.

Immaterial and Irrelevant.

A lawyer of Omaha entering an eating house was immediately approached by a waiter, who observed cheerfully, "I have frogs' legs, deviled kidneys, pig's feet and calf's brains."

"Well," said the lawyer sternly, "you look it. But what's that to me? I came to eat."—Philadelphia Ledger.

WASHING DISHES.

There Is an Art In This Homely Every-day Duty.

THE PROPER EQUIPMENT.

When Washing Cutlery It Is Always Best to Use a Good Silver Soap. This Method Does Away With the Weekly Cleaning.

The art of dishwashing has become almost extinct in this quick going age, when the only way to do a thing is to do it at once and have it soon over. Yet real dishwashing is an art.

Dishwashing requires two dishpans, one in which to wash and the other to rinse the dishes; an abundance of heavy linen towels, some lighter ones for glasses, a good dish mop and dishcloths. The dishcloth should be of strong linen. Stair crash is excellent for this purpose, as it will become soft enough to be flexible and is very durable. Make these cloths about ten inches long, of narrow crash and hem them to prevent the edges from fraying when they are put through the mundry.

First of all, the dishes should be gathered up and properly scraped, then held for a moment under the hot water faucet to take off the first coating of grease. Any dishes or knives and forks used for fish should be carefully wiped with paper, as dishcloths are infected by fish immediately.

Put the dishes in hot suds. Use the fish mop freely and transfer them to the other pan to be rinsed. Let this second pan be very large and have a wooden drain fitted in two inches from the bottom, so that the boiling water poured over the dishes will drain off them. This is the best and safest way of draining.

In washing the silver use a silver soap and thus avoid the weekly silver cleaning day, with the added inducement that the silver is constantly bright.

Wash spiders, pots and kettles separately and with an iron dishcloth. Pots and kettles should be washed inside and outside and thoroughly wiped before being set away. The coffee pot and tea kettle should be boiled out at least once a week with soda and water to keep them tastefully clean.

Walnuts as Food.

A London medical journal recently published some interesting facts concerning walnuts as food. According to this authority, "thirty large walnut kernels contain as much food value as two and three-quarter pounds of lean beef." With beef worth approximately 20 cents a pound, this means that each walnut is worth about 2 cents as a food product as compared with beef. That these facts will greatly encourage the production and consumption of walnuts is hardly to be expected. There is some consolation, however, in the thought that when meat has become a luxury, to be indulged only by the rich, the general consumer can keep his dinner very well—somewhat like Peter Pumpkin Eater's wife—in a walnut shell.

Father's Ultimatum.

The father of a large family of children was trying hard to read the evening paper.

"What's that terrible racket in the hall, Martha?"

"One of the children just fell down stairs."

"Well," he replied, turning over another page of the paper, "you tell the children if they can't fall downstairs quietly they'll have to stop it."—Lippincott's.

Showing Him How.

"You young scoundrel!" said the father, seizing his disobedient son by the hand. "I'll show you how to treat your mother!"

And he gave him several bangs on the ears and then shook him until his hair began to fall out.

Still it'll be in my element quite While you prattle in garrulous glee, For I know all you say must be right If you say it at five o'clock tea. Highland News

March 13.—Mr. J. T. Johanneson of Bergen is nearly through sawing wood for this season.

Mr. Arnt Gensson of Highland has sent for a full blood White Rock cockerel.

Billy Mjolsness and Harvey McKnight drove a bunch of cattle in town for Jones of Didsbury.

They have started to drill for oil near Highland. Here's hoping that they find it.

There has been a large number of homesteaders taking land in Highland. All that we lack now is the railroad.

Mr. Ira Gamble, who has been living in Didsbury, has moved out on his homestead again and is planning on turning over his land and showing people how to use a homestead to full advantage.

Mr. Morgan Severson had a gasoline outfit of Mr. Pearson's of Bergen up to his place to saw wood for him last week and sawed a fine lot of wood in three days, nearly twenty-five cords.

Mr. A. J. Foster and family are expected back to Highland soon. Mr. Foster has been visiting relatives in Michigan for the past four months.

Several moose have been seen near Highland. Why don't they come a round in the right season.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets

are, we honestly believe, the best remedy made for Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all other Stomach Ills

We Know They're Good

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, in addition to other ingredients, contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two great digestive aids used by the entire medical profession. They soothe the inflamed stomach, check the heartburn and distress, stimulate a healthy secretion of the gastric juice, aid in rapid and comfortable digestion of the food and help to quickly convert it into rich red blood, and thereby into flesh, bone and muscle. They relieve stomach distress promptly, and, used regularly for a short time, tend to restore the stomach to a comfortable, easy-acting, healthy state. They aid greatly to promote regular bowel action.

Delays Are Dangerous

Don't neglect indigestion, for it frequently leads to all sorts of ill and complications. The pain and discomfort is not the most unfortunate part. The fact that when the stomach is not acting right, the material needed to repair the wastes that are constantly taking place in the body is not being given to the blood either in the proper condition or fast enough is far more serious. Nothing will cause more trouble than an unhealthy stomach. The blues, debility, lack of strength and energy, constipation, biliousness, headaches and scores of other serious ailments result from the failure of the stomach to properly do its work.

You Risk No Money

Our willingness to have you use Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets entirely at our risk proves our faith in them. We always sell them this way, and it is because we know that they have greatly benefited scores of sufferers to whom we have sold them. There's no red tape about our guarantee. It means just what it says. We'll ask you no questions. You needn't sign anything. Your word is enough for us. We know that when they help you you will consider it money well spent even if they had cost you ten times as much. If they don't help you, the money you paid for them is yours, and we want you to have it.

Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores—the World's Greatest Drug Stores. In convenient boxes—three sizes: 25c, 50c, $1.00

HOW PEOPLE FEEL When They Have TAPE WORM

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is of pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon, and causes its victim to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of bowels, appendicitis, and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster, without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms, and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince us of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat, and from three-quarters of an inch to an inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take too long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope or call at 167 Dundas Street, Prof. R. L. Mulveney, Toronto, Ont.

A Real Nerve and Body-Building Medicine

We believe Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion is the best remedy made for toning the nerves, enriching the blood, building up wasted tissues, renewing health, strength and energy—the best medicine you can use if you are run-down, tired out, nervous and debilitated, no matter what the cause. It doesn't depend for its good effect upon alcohol or habit-forming drugs, because it contains none. It may not make you feel better in a few hours, but it will make you feel better, we are sure, just as soon as the tonic and food properties it contains have a chance to get into the blood, and through the blood, into the rest of the system. Pure Olive Oil and the Hypophosphites have long been endorsed by successful physicians, but here, for the first time, they are combined into one preparation which, as a nerve-food and a builder of strength and health, we believe, has no equal. If you don't feel well, begin taking Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion today, and build your health and strengthen your system against more serious illness. To convalescent, old people, puny children and all others who are weak, run down or ailing, we offer Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion with our personal promise that, if it doesn't make you well and strong again, it will cost you nothing. If we didn't have the utmost faith in it, we wouldn't offer it with this guarantee, nor even recommend it to you. We are sure that once you have used it you will recommend it to your friends, and thank us for having recommended it to you. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores and in this town only by us. $1.00. H. W. Chambers, Didsbury.

AROUND THE TOWN

green crepe paper arranged as a canopy over the whole ceiling and huge hamrook leaves adorned the walls, the whole giving a pleasing effect under the electric light

We take great pleasure in welcoming to the town as a new resident and business man Mr. J. R. Shaw, formerly of Clive and Lacombe. Mr. Shaw has bought out the remainder of Schrader & Son's stock and has added a large new stock of goods, and will be pleased to meet the residents of this district in his temporary store in the Wrigglesworth block north of town. Mrs. Shaw and family will arrive from Lacombe in a week or two to take up their residence here.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Colwell of Cremona, returned from a few months visit at Maitland, Miss., Orange City and Hospers, Iowa, last week. Mr. Colwell, who is a large landowner and farms on a big scale in his district, before leaving for a visit to his old home for a holiday was somewhat discontented with his condition, and was beginning to think he could do better elsewhere. However he has completely changed his mind while he has been gone, and in conversation with a Pioneer representative stated that he failed to see a better country than this, taking everything into consideration, in all his travels, the farmers in his old home district were much worse off than in this district and the young men could not possibly make the success there that they could here. Mr. Colwell is entirely satisfied now to stay with us, and states that a lot of us do not fully appreciate our advantages.
